PARTRIDGE

Duxbury High School
Duxbury, Massachusetts

. . . . . to every student who has walked through the FRONT DOOR . . . climbed the

STAIRS

. . . hurried to LUNCH

or

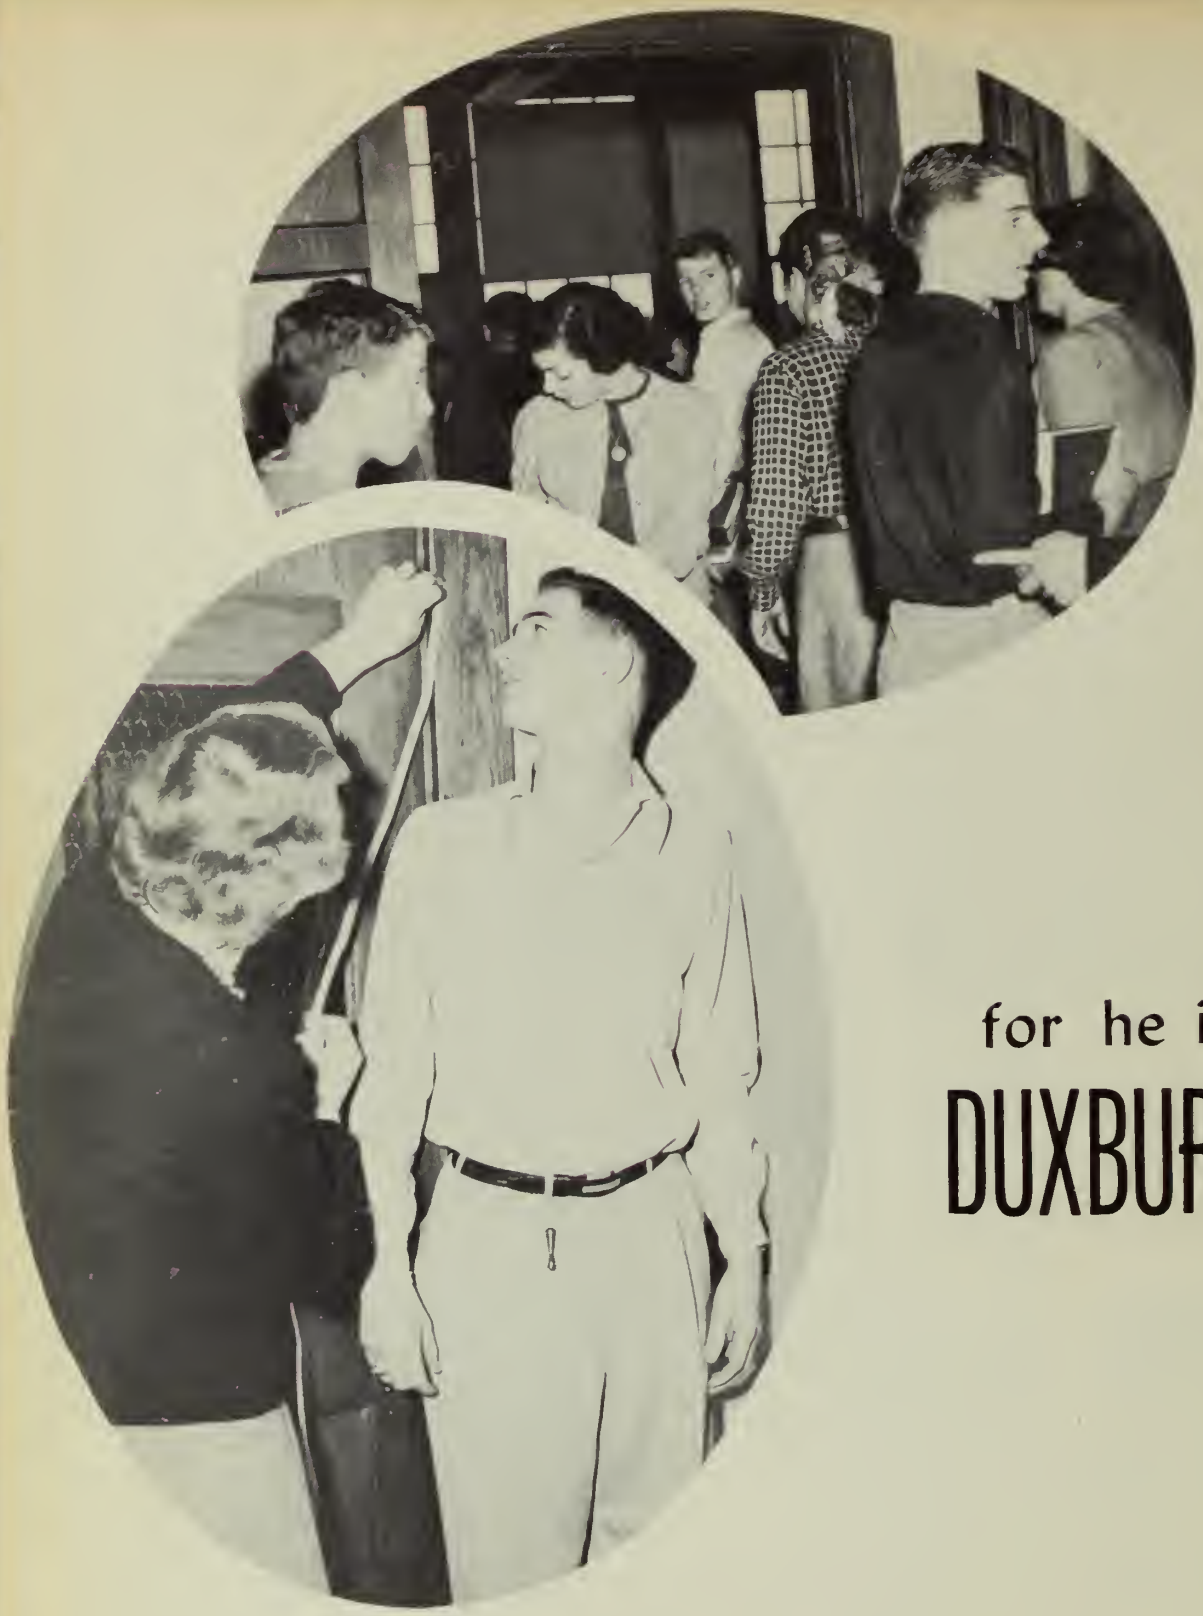
retired to AREA 9

to every student who has played the game

. . . on the COURT

. . . on the FIELD

. . . or in the BALCONY



for he is

DUXBURY

. . . . this 1952 PARTRIDGE

. . . . to the DUXBURY STUDENT is dedicated . . .

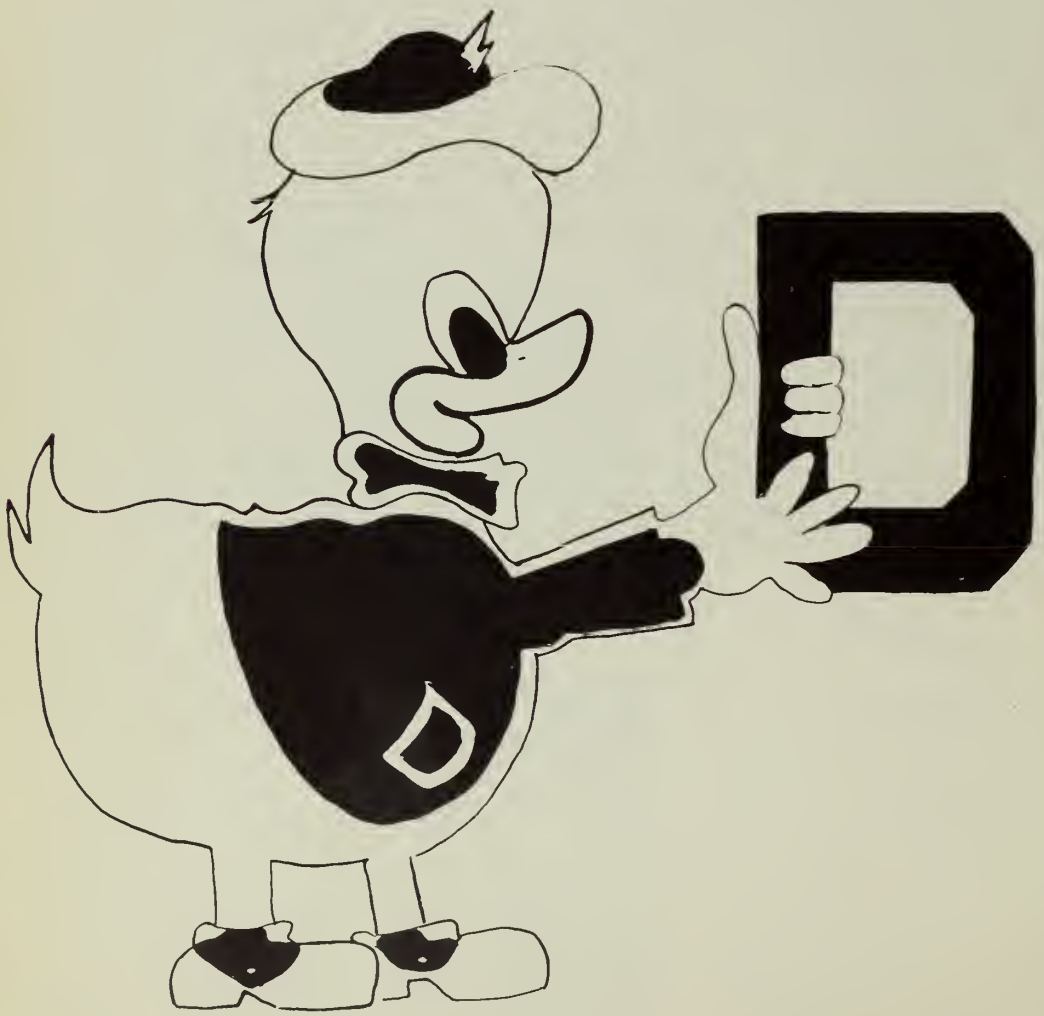
. . . And to Sir Rodney, the D.H.S. mascot! Don't I deserve any recognition? Wouldn't you consider me a D.H.S. student? Having created me, the class of 1952 can neither abandon nor ignore me. I was born during your sophomore year, and have been your shadow ever since. I have waddled to your games, quacked from your balconies, slid onto your dance floor, and now my webbed feet will carry me right across the pages of your yearbook . . .



SITTING: Edmund J. King, F. Jeheber Harrison, Elizabeth M. Bassett, Barclay, J. Woodward, Rodney R. Wood, Richard C. Hands, Elesebeth B. Bencardo, Ralph N. Blakeman, James W. O'Hara, Robert M. Vaughan, BACK ROW: Ellamarie N. Carr, Elinar K. Churchill, Harriet P. Marstan, Margaret R. Hadley.

Our loyal homeroom teacher who worked for and with us for three trying but memorable years, who always gave us much-needed advice in decorating for dances, cheered our teams to victory, and constantly flashed her winning smile, which told us she knew we'd come out on top. She laughed when we laughed, she cried when we cried, and she hated as much as we, the farewell to Duxbury and her friends. Though she has gone to far-off Alaska, she is here in the minds and hearts of the Class of 1952 - - - our own MISS GRAY.
